Make a public work of art inspired by the inHarlem exhibition Chloë Bass: Wayfinding, on view in St. Nicholas Park.

Take a walk in your community and find a stone, branch, or leaf. Use paint or markers to decorate your found nature, writing a message you’d like to share with your community. Once your work is complete, leave it in a park for someone else to find!

Suggested Materials
- Paint or markers
- A paintbrush
- Found piece of nature (rock, stone, or branch)

Suggested Reading

Maybe Something Beautiful: How Art Transformed a Neighborhood by F. Isabel Campoy and Theresa Howell

Chloë Bass (b. 1984)
How much of love is attention?, 2019
Mirrored stainless steel with frosted vinyl lettering
120 x 48 in.
Courtesy Chloë Bass.